SESSIONS

9:00 AM – 11:00 AM: GATHERING WELCOME & KEYNOTE

KEYNOTE: MENOMINEE'S JOURNEY TO A CULTURE OF HEALTH

JERRY & WENDELL WAUKAU, MENOMINEE NATION

This presentation is the story of one tribal community's path to heal their invisible wounds of historical trauma. Thanks to an ongoing successful community engagement effort, the Menominee Nation is now on a journey to improve the health of their tribal community that includes a patient-centered approach as well as a student-centered approach in their schools. This continuous improvement journey of cross-sector community collaboration has earned the Menominee Nation national recognition as a Robert Wood Johnson Foundation (RWJF) Culture of Health Prize recipient in 2015 as well as other validations at the state and national level.

11:15 AM – 12:15 PM: BREAKOUT SESSION 1

BREAKOUT OPTION 1: COMMUNITY AND GOVERNMENT: LEARNING FROM NEW JERSEY'S RESILIENCE WORK

BECKY DALE, RIVER VALLEY COACHING

KELLI S. PURYEAR, NEW JERSEY OFFICE OF RESILIENCE

The NJ Office of Resilience (OoR) was created in June 2020, funded by the New Jersey ACEs Collaborative, an alliance of three NJ philanthropic organizations, in partnership with the NJ Department of Children and Families. OoR is led by an "Executive on Loan" - More Resilient Minnesota's own long-time partner, Dave Ellis. Another long-time More Resilient Minnesota partner, Becky Dale, has been working with Dave to support the rollout of ACE Interface training and community resilience work in New Jersey. This first of its kind effort brings together the power of community voices with the support of government. In this workshop, Becky Dale and Kelli S. Puryear from the NJ OoR will share their experiences with the work in New Jersey. The New Jersey efforts have learned much from the Minnesota experience - and now More Resilient Minnesota can learn from and be inspired by New Jersey's work, too!

BREAKOUT OPTION 2: FOSTERING INDIVIDUAL AND COLLECTIVE HEALING ACROSS THE GENERATIONS

SUZANNE KOEPLINGER, CATALYST NORTH CONSULTING

We come into our vocations with unique gifts, passions, and wounds, which impact how we manage our daily exposure to suffering and toxic stress. Beginning the process of recognizing and interrupting individual and organizational habits can shift how we work and live, and what we are handing down to the next generation. Learn to strategically respond to events in ways that minimize the toll on our own health and create more resilient individuals and organizational cultures. This session will offer tools and insights into building culturally meaningful healing practices that interrupt the intergenerational flow of trauma and foster the transmission of wisdom across the generations.

BREAKOUT OPTION 3: SYSTEMS CHANGE: EFFORTS AT THE STATE LEVEL IN COMMUNITY-LEVEL PREVENTION

KELLY FELTON, SUICIDE PREVENTION - MDH

KRIS HAUGEN, STATEWIDE HEALTH IMPROVEMENT PLAN - MDH

LAURA BENNETT, REGIONAL PREVENTION COORDINATOR - DHS

NANCY RIESTENBERG, RESTORATIVE PRACTICES - MDE

We know that an important part of systems change is transforming the policies, practices, and power dynamics that impact communities, families, and individuals. This panel will provide an overview of four state-led, cross-sector prevention efforts that are being implemented at the community level, including Suicide Prevention (MDH), Statewide Health Improvement Program (MDH), Restorative Practices (MDE), and Regional Prevention Coordinators (DHS). Panelists will highlight where efforts are active across the state, and how participants can get connected to these efforts in their local communities. In addition, panelists will share concrete examples of how their efforts are supporting community well-being, and how we might connect our efforts to have an even greater impact.

Suicide Prevention

Minnesota suicide prevention efforts are based on evidence that most suicides are preventable, mental illness is treatable, and recovery is possible. Suicide is a serious public health problem that can leave lasting effects on individuals, families, and communities. Suicide is complex; there is no single cause of death by suicide. But most importantly, suicide is preventable. Our goal is zero. The Suicide Prevention Program is working to reduce suicide in Minnesota by 10% in five years, and 20% in 10 years, ultimately working towards zero deaths. Our Minnesota State Plan calls for a comprehensive, public health approach that promotes health, wellness, resilience, and connectedness in all communities. Key partners include schools, coaches, faith communities, law enforcement, tribal nations, and health and behavioral health care practitioners.

Regional Prevention Coordinators

The Regional Prevention Coordinators are one provider within a system of support services for people and organizations to engage in addressing the root causes of substance abuse. Regional Prevention Coordinators help community partners grow substance misuse prevention efforts through personalized support and consultation on:

- Where to begin
- Getting the right people to the table
- Creating a plan
- Putting the work into action
- Figuring out what's working and what's not

Together, this system provides the in-person support, information, and data to be effective, save time, implement best practices, and grow substance abuse prevention in more Minnesota communities! These positions are funded by the Minnesota Department of Human Services, Behavioral Health Division (BHD).

Restorative Practices

The Minnesota Department of Education provides resources and training to school districts and educators to support their restorative journey. Restorative Practices (RP) are drawn from the traditions of Indigenous people and communities of color around the world. They are grounded in a belief that people are profoundly relational, interconnected, and inherently good. Restorative practices include ways of creating community that honor the importance of relationships amongst all members in the community; as well as practices to repair relationships when harm has been caused. RP address the needs of all people impacted by the harm. By using restorative practices in the school, people get to know one another and build relationships with each other, which is a key element to learning, bullying prevention, and creating a positive school climate for students and adults. Key principles guide the practices.

Statewide Health Improvement Partnership

The Statewide Health Improvement Partnership (SHIP) is a state-funded initiative to help communities create better health together by increasing options for healthy eating, active living, reducing commercial tobacco use, and increasing well-being options. SHIP supports county public health departments and community health boards who partner with more than 4,000 schools, workplaces, health care and childcare, and community settings to implement proven, effective strategies that reduce risk factors for chronic disease and support healthy lifestyles. In the last two years, SHIP has begun to build the work of including well-being within all strategies and as a community initiative. Mental health and physical health are intricately intertwined, and both need to be addressed. The SHIP well-being strategy calls for local public health partners to assess community needs, research partners who are currently working within the well-being arena, and determine how to positively impact their communities by supporting current work or initiating well-being strategies within communities or populations in need.

12:30 PM – 1:15 PM: SPECIAL SESSION - CHILDREN'S MENTAL HEALTH AND FAMILY SERVICES COLLABORATIVE COORDINATORS

*COLLABORATIVE COORDINATORS
FAMILYWISE REGIONAL STAFF*

1:30 PM - 2:30 PM: BREAKOUT SESSION 2

BREAKOUT OPTION 1: SYSTEMS CHANGE: PEOPLE ORGANIZING AND WORKING FOR EQUITABLE RESULTS

JANSSEN HANG, HMONG AMERICAN FARMERS ASSOCIATION

BIRDIE LYONS, LEECH LAKE BAND OF OJIBWE FAMILY SPIRIT EMPOWERMENT PROGRAM

BETHLEHEM YEWHALAWORK, NORTHPOINT HEALTH AND WELLNESS

ASHWAT NARAYANAN, OUR STREETS

JODI BROADWELL AND NIK ALLEN, LINCOLN PARK CHILDREN AND FAMILIES COLLABORATIVE

Systems change also means transforming social norms, mindsets, and the way we do the work and meet the needs of those most impacted by the issues we see in our communities. This panel will highlight 5 Health POWER (People Organizing and Working for Equitable Results) Initiatives, funded by the Center for Prevention at Blue Cross and Blue Shield of Minnesota. These community-driven initiatives focus on improving community health and addressing health inequities through policy, systems, and environmental changes in the areas of physical activity, healthy eating, and reducing commercial tobacco use. This session will highlight the value of cross-sector partnerships and provide concrete examples of organizations that are working to meet community needs during this challenging time. Each panelist will share about their initiative, along with challenges, adaptations, and successes they have had over the past couple of years. Their stories can help us envision what may be possible in our own communities, by integrating an approach that centers the voices of those most impacted.

Lincoln Park Children and Families Collaborative

The Lincoln Park Children and Families Collaborative (LPCFC) is building a coalition of people living in the Lincoln Park neighborhood of Duluth, Minnesota. The coalition is using a grassroots approach to identify issues that they and other Lincoln Park residents care about, and are working with other organizations, businesses, and institutions to tackle those issues.

Anti-Tobacco Policy Advocacy NorthPoint

The overarching goal of NorthPoint's project is to reduce commercial tobacco use among residents of Minneapolis and Hennepin County suburbs, with a focus on African American youth and young adults, who are disproportionately targeted by commercial tobacco advertising and are more likely to die from tobacco related illnesses than their White peers.

Hmong American Farmers Association

The Hmong American Farmers Association (HAFA) is a membership based non-profit organization that was created to foster the inequity faced by Hmong farmers relative to lack of access to land, markets (besides the farmers market), credit and capital, trainings, and research. This mission of the organization is to advance the economic, social, and cultural prosperity of Hmong farmers through capacity building, cooperative endeavor, and advocacy to spur intergenerational and community wealth.

HAFA's Farm to Early Care program focuses on increasing access to fresh healthy culturally appropriate produce to women of color in-home daycare providers to increase healthy consumption habits of children, introduce and enroll women of color providers to the Child and Adult Care Food Program (CACFP) and create a secure revenue stream for Hmong farmers.

Our Streets

Our Streets Minneapolis is focused on making PSE (Problem Solving Environment) changes in Minneapolis streets to put people first. Our Streets is changing the transportation planning process from the current "top-down" approach to one that centers and highlights the needs and issues of those most marginalized in the community.

Leech Lake Family Spirit EmPOWERment Program Improvement Partnership

The ultimate vision for the EmPOWERment program is to reduce health inequities among the Leech Lake Band of Ojibwe (LLBO). Rooted in Ojibwe cultural traditions, the EmPOWERment program works with LLBO community members to promote physically active lifestyles, encourage healthy eating habits for families and young children, promote breastfeeding, and reduce commercial tobacco use and secondhand smoke exposure.

BREAKOUT OPTION 2: USING SUPERPOWERS TO ADVANCE HEALTH EQUITY. BAM!

*JACQUELYN FREUND, EPICOG, LLC
MELISSA ADOLFSON, WILDER RESEARCH*

You can be a superhero for youth in your community. Minnesota Student Survey (MSS) findings show that protective factors like having adults to discuss problems with, feeling empowered, and feeling safe are associated with lower rates of youth substance use and mental health issues. But the findings also reveal that these protective factors are not always equitably distributed in Minnesota communities. New response options for self-identified race/ethnicity on the 2019 MSS allow us to see how prevalent protective factors are for each population, and which protective factors are most salient. Groups that experience the greatest disparities in health outcomes also have experienced the greatest inequities in social conditions that strongly predict health. Communities can use the MSS data, along with new Minnesota Compass Cultural Community Profiles, to learn more about the youth in their area and which community member superpowers can be unleashed to improve health equity.

BREAKOUT OPTION 3: REMEMBERING RESILIENCE: THE HEALING POWER OF STORYTELLING

SUSAN BEAULIEU, BRIANA MATRIOUS AND LINSEY MCMURRIN

In this session, we will share the story of our journey developing the podcast series, Remembering Resilience. The focus of the podcast is to highlight Native American resilience through and beyond trauma, as we explore concepts, science, history, culture, stories, and practices that we are working with as we seek to shape a future for our children and our grandchildren that is defined not by what we have suffered, but what we have overcome. This session highlights the power of storytelling and how it can be used to promote community engagement, a sense of feeling seen, heard, and understood, while we continue on our journey to both individual and collective healing.

BIRDIE LYONS

 www.llojibwe.org

I have been a Practical Nurse for 32 years, the majority of which has been inside the Leech Lake Band of Ojibwe. I have been a Head Start nurse, WIC Director, Clinic Manager of 6 clinics, LPN float nurse, and a community educator.

I started out my career as a Head Start nurse for the LLBO in 1983, leaving for a short time until the Chairman requested I return to assist his staff in the WIC program. I left again to marry and returned in 1998 to assist in taking over the satellite clinics from the IHS. I returned and worked under the Health Division and became the Manager of six clinics located throughout the Reservation. I worked for The Archdeacon Gillfilan Center 2002, a youth residential program, as the Administrative Lead Nurse. I assisted the facility to learn and use Native American traditions and values to help heal community youth. I was requested in 2009 to return to LLBO to assist in the education portion of the Nursing program. I became the community educator on SUIDS, SBS, FASD, Safe Bath, Safe Sleep, smoking, pregnancy, and HIV/AIDS. I am currently employed by the LLBO Health Division as a Public Health LPN.
